The Breeding Problem

The Kentucky Stock Farm.]

Horse breeders will do well to consider and compare the information contained in the letters from prominent breeders, published in the past four issues. It will be observed that the most thoughtful men engaged in the business differ in their methods of handling stallions and mares, but a comparison of results will impart to the unprejudiced a lesson of the highest value that will tend to establish a more uniform standard of practice. Of course there are some who have inherited certain methods and scorn any suggestion inconsistent with them, and others who are satisfied that they are masters of the hidden secrets of nature. These men have ceased to grow and have already begun to die. The world can do nothing more for them, and the earth they encumber is already yearning to claim its own. We had some conversation with

Mr. Milton B. Young and were struck by the system with which he had arrived at conclusions. He tried his mares every day in the season after the first breeding until he was satisfied they were with foal, and recorded every circumstance having the least bearing. His theory was that a mare once bred should be regularly tried to ascertain when she went out; that the trials should then continue to PACIFIC LUMBER & WOOD CE find out if she came in season again; that when in again, whether the time since her last service was long or short, the mare should be bred. In pursuing this theory Mr. Young found that almost invariably a mare that remained in eason as long as six days after being bred would, though permitted to go out without further breeding, come in later and have to be bred again. Consequently his practice now is to breed a mare over if she remains in season six days after she was bred without waiting for her to go out and come in again. The statistics gathered in the pracout at a time and driven to the stallion. This was a little troublesome the first few days, after which one man besides the stallion's groom could easily try a bunch of twenty or thirty in a brief time without other assistance. This be ing done every day, the valuable data from which the important conclusions above mentioned were drawn, was obtained.

The statistics gathered in the practice of the first theory furnished dats which led absolutely to the conclusion upon which he bases his present practice. The importance of this discovery cannot be ever-estimated. A month or two added to the life of a high-bred foal often means an increased value of hundreds of dollars, and in a stud of fifty mares the difference in early and late foals, a higher or lower rate of barrenness, is from five to ten thousand dollars per or lower rate of barrenness, is from five to ten thousand dollars per annum.

Mr. Young's method of obtaining daily information of the condition of his mares was simple and inexpensive. The groom took his place with the stallion at the teasing pole, separating him from a lot, where the mares were driven in loose, one of them being singled out at a time and driven to the

O BONITO COLONY LANDS ARE LOCATED IN BUTTE COUNTY California, and along the prettiest part of Feather River. They are about eight miles south of Oroville, three miles from Gridley, and two miles from Biggs, on the Oregon and California Railroad, and seventy-three miles from Sacramento. There are growing on the lands white oak trees, some of which are thirty-five feet in circumference. The soil is a rich, sandy loam, and cannot be surpassed in productiveness. Citrus and all kinds of deciduous fruits ripen here to perfection. Rio Bonito Colony Lands are a garden spot, and are certain to be the most popular for homes of any to be found in Central California.

They began bearing the third year from planting, and are now hanging full of splendid golden fruit.
Thos. HUTCHINS, Gridley.

I cannot speak too highly of the merits of your soil; none better in the State for stone fruits. The oranges now growing in my front yard are of as fine flavor and the trees of as thrifty growth as I have ever seen anywhere John S. Hutchins.

If your land were in fruit bearing trees, the land would be worth and would pay a good interest on an investment of $500 per acre. Our orchard of 75 acres adjoining your place, this year yielded at the rate of $300 per acre.

JAS. HENNIGER, Gridley,

Executors Hilger's Estate.

On such land as yours, all kinds of fruit do well. A test of 75 of my apple trees showed a yield last year at the rate of 1,000 per acre. There has not been even one failure of my apple crop in 30 years. Phillip Hermer, Central House.

My orchard is 27 years old, and adjoining your land which is exactly the same as mine. The net average yield per acre, without irrigation, has been not less than $200 per annum. I have not lost a fruit crop in 27 years from frost or any other cause. D. STREETER, Biggs.

A body of land as valuable and well dapted for all purposes of agriculture, specially fruit raising, as any land nown to me.

G. K. Shith,

Banker, Biggs.

I know the great capabilities of your place as a fruit ranch. In five years after planting, that land in clives would yield fully $300 per acre in oil, and will increase year after year until its annual yield will exceed $500.

John C. Gray, Diet 1447.

This section of Butte County is one of the best in California for fruit culture. Such land as this, if set out to fruits, would, at the end of three years, it is estimated, be worth at least $500 per acre. At this rate, twenty acres in fruit within three years would be worth $10,000. The managers will take charge of the setting out of fruit trees for purchasers of land, and at the actual cost of doing the same.

The land is now for sale in tracts to suit at $100 per acre, on easy terms—one-third cash; balance in one, two and three years at eight per cent.

Buy ticket to Biggs. Fare from San Francisco, $5.20; from Santo, $2.20. Stages from Oroville to Biggs pass the land daily. Send culars.

...FEBRUARY 9, 1888

THE result of the New York Tribune's inquiry among the farmers of the country upon the protection idea reveals a unanimity of opinion in favor of a tariff that will protect that was hardly to be expected from the statements made by Democratic newspapers. Of the many thousands of letters received from farmers, in response to the Tribune's request for opinions, none seem to question the soundness or advisability of maintaining a tariff for protection. Nearly all the writers demand pretection for the farming interests as complete as that af-forded to manufacturers. This is a wholesome revelation and shows that the country is with the Republicans of the cities in their demand for the protection of the nation's industries against foreign competition. It is complimentary to the intelligence of the rural population that they see in the conservatism of American manufacturers and the upholding of labor the surest way to their own prosperity. The great market for the farmer is not, as some people claim, Europe, but our own country. The Tribune's enterprise has contributed the most powerful campaign literature that has yet been, or that is likely to be, evolved during the year.

THE Virginia City Chronicle has the following relative to how land may be utilized for stock:

may be utilized for stock:

In the arid region of the United States (including Nevada) immense areas, unavailable for tilinge, afford pasturage. Here the raiser of sheep, horses and cattle labors under disadvantages, due to the fact that he has not complete control over his pasture. Most of the grazing land is a "tree range," the price ($1.25 per acre) belug too high. The evil results are that sheepmen run their flocks over and spoil the cattleman's rauge, the small cattleman is eaten up by the big one, ranges get overstocked and worn out because B has a right to run as many cattle on it as he chooses, so also has A, etc. Fencing in of large areas was the illegal attempt to obviate some of these drawbacks.

A few years ago the suggestion came from Washington that a commission these drawbacks.

A few years ago the suggestion came from Washington that a commission be appointed to grade the public lands, and that such as were unfit for tillage be sold in large tracts for pasture for say ten or fifteen cents an acre. The just objection was made that this would invite fraud, that land that today appears unsuited for agriculture may be found very suitable by-and-by, and that the wise policy of preventing monopoly of the land should be continued.

we venture to suggest how, avoid-ing the above objections, stockmen night such obtain control of his own large: Let the Government lease for long term at fixed annual rent per tree, giving him the privilege of longing and exclusive pasturage only: encing and exclusive pasturage only; out reserving right of entry as hereto-bre to citizens for agricultural settle-nent, timber entry, searching for ninerals, etc. Of course settlers with-t leased ranges would have to fence

The newspapers of Nevada would be well to ventilate this question, as it inbraces an industry of vital interest the State.

THERE are four men in the House who part their bair in the They are Raynor and Belmont on the Democratic side, and Phelps and Long on the Republican side. They are all men with so much brains that they must keep their heads perfectly balanced, or else the weight of the brain would tip them over sideways. MANITOBIANS are agitating a scheme to transport the whole population of Iceland, about seventyfive thousand, to that country to-gether with their flocks and herds. This would be a remarkable exodus. There has been a steady flow of Icelandic emigration to Canada for the last fifteen years.

Benator Stewart has introduced a bill in the Senate to amend the statutes relating to mining. One of the amendments is that no person shall acquire upon a location or possession more than one mining claim on the same vein; nor shall any person relocate a claim which he has previously located; also that no more than 3,000 feet in length along the veins of claims located prior to the 10th day of May, 1882, and not more than one claim located after the same date shall be included in the same application for a patent.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

As Delivered at the Opening of Parliament To-day. London, Feb. Totaliament as-sembled to-day. The Queen's speech opening the session was read by Royal commission, as follows:

My Lords and Gentlemen:-I continue to receive from all the powers cordial assurances of friendly senti-ments, as well as an earnest desire to maintain the peace of the world. My officers, in conjunction with those of the Emperor of Russia, have completed the demercation of the Afghanistan boundary in conformity with the terms of the convention of 1887. It trust the work thus concluded may tend to remove a possibility of a misunderstanding between the two powers regarding their Asian possessions. Animated by a desire to prevent the effusion of blood, I dispatched a mission to the King of Abyssinia with the hope of dissuading him from engaging in a war with Italy. I regret that my efforts were not successful. The deliberations of a conference at Washington to adjust the questions which have arisen between Canada and America are still progressing. Negotiations commenced in 1885 in respect to the regulation of the Suez canal have been brought to a conclusion so far as the point of difference between myself and the French republic are concerned. I have also entered into an agreement with France for the protection of life and property in the New Hebrides by a joint naval commission. A conference of delegates from the powers interested in the sugar industry summoned to meet in London in the Autumn to consider the possibility of ending the injurious system of bounties, has made considerable progress towards the conclusion of a satisfactory arrangement.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons, estimates for services for 1888, which will be laid before you, have been framed with due regard for economy. You will be asked to provide for the improvement of defences of ports and coaling stations, rendered urgently necessary by the advance of military service, and also to sanction an arrangement providing for a special squadron to protect Australian commerce, the expense of which will be partially borne by the colonies.

An Immigration Bureau Needed.

The GAZETTE is in receipt of a letter from A. L. Foreman, of Pittefield, Illinois, in which the writer asks for information about the resources, etc., of the State. He writes: "I want to know what kind of a country you have and writes: "I want to know what kind of a country you have and what it is good for. I am going west soon, and I am almost afraid that California is overdone, and that everything is too high. So I think it would be better to make some inquiries about Nevada."

The foregoing is a sample of the many letters from abroad this office is receiving, and answer is invariably made to all such. The last Legislature made provision for the formation of a State Bureau of Immigration, but the Controller has probably found some legal technicality which completely blocks the workings of the propused commission as nothing has been heard of it since the passage of the bill creating it. Attorney - General Alexander, with commendable zeal, is engaged in collecting data and information about the resources of the State, but it will probably be several years before the work will be ready for the printer. In the meantime, thousands of homeseekers will cross Nevada into California in blissful ignorance of the silver land's wonderful possibilities and resources, simply because the various Legislatures have refused to appropriate money for the purpose of compiling a book of needed information.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you

AN 88,000 CALF.

What it Cost J. P. Anderson to Disprove a Charge of Grand Larceny. J. P. Anderson, a wealthy Humboldt county stockman, and the Nevada Live Stock Association, have held different views concerning the alleged theft by the former of a calf belonging to Russell & Bradley, and last week the case came up before the courts at Winnemucca for adjudication, resulting in the acquittal of the defendant. Great interest has been manifested in the case by Nevada stockmen, owing mainly to the facts that the accused is one of the most wealthy cattlemen in the State and that the Nevada Live Stock Association was prosecuting the case. The array of legal talent engaged was a formidable one, and consisted of Judge William Bonnifield, General Robert M. Clarke, J. H. McMillan and M. S. Bonnifield for the defense, while Colonel R. H. Lindsay and A. E. Cheney waged legal battle for the prosecution.

Owing to the widespread interest taken in the matter, a GAZETTE reporter to-day interviewed Mr. Lindsay, and from him a full history of the case, from the alleged theft of the calf on September 25, 1886, down to the completion of the case on Sunday last, was learned. case on Sunday last, was learned. The Colonel spoke without notes, and confined himself to giving such facts as were adduced from witnesses at the trial as follows: The Colonel first stated that it was distinctly understood by the prosecution that the charge of grand larceny could not be upheld, and that the only hope held out by him was that a conviction of petit larceny could be secured. The Nevada Live Stock Association officials also had the same opinion, but resolved to the same opinion, but resolved to push the case to a final issue as a warning to others who were reputed to be too handy with the branding iron—a fault, by the way, according to rumor, too prevalent in the eastern part of the State. Having delivered himself of the foregoing, Mr. Lindsay came down to facts. He said: "On September 25, 1886, J. P. Anderson and John Hall, Joseph Hall, and George Stuber, cowpos in the former's complex wares out on the range.

Stuber, cowboys in the former's employ, were out on the range gathering cattle. John Hall and George Stuber were some distance away with the main band, while Anderson and Joe Hall were riding on the outskirts. Anderson knew of a white cow and a buil calf, some distance away, and ordered Hall, so the latter stated, to ride down and drive them into the main band. He knew the cow belonged to Russell & Bradley, but said that he could make the calf all right. This done, Anderson drove his cattle to his place at Golconda, a distance of eighty miles from the range, and in order to reach there, had to pass through the range of Russell & Bradley. On the 29th of the same month the cattle arrived at Anderson's home place, and Russell & Bradley, call was a call and sussell & Bradley, and Russell & Bradley month the cattle arrived at Anderson's home place, and Russell & Bradley's calf was placed in a corral, and the mother again turned out on the public domain. The calf, according to the testimony, was subsequently branded by Anderson's orders in the presence of his wife, Joe King, and two Mexican herders, his brand "U T" being imprinted on the animal's left him. printed on the animal's left hip, although at the time, according to the defense, it was stated by Ander-son that it was Russeil & Bradley's calf. On the trial the defense introduced testimony showing that the animal was not "mutilated," as mal entire so as to be able to identify it. This testimony was rebutted by Deputy Sheriff Nofsinger, who testified that the animal had been castrated, and a considerable time had elapsed since the oper-

On or about November 1st the Hall boys were discharged from Auderson's employ, and Joe Hall, knowing the facts, and desirous of "playing even" with his late employer, went to Winnemucca about the 15th of the same month, and made a statement to Secretary. Nixon, of the Nevada Live Stock Association, of the case. On November 29th, Hall, acting according to the instructions of Nixon, went to Golconda, took the calf out of Anderson's corral and drove it to Winnemucca, where it was placed Winnemucca, where it was placed in Sweetser & Stauffer's corral by order of Leputy Sheriff Notsinger. order of Leputy Sheriff Nofsinger.
For some unaccountable reason, the Colonel states, no care was taken of the animal by the legal authorities or for that matter by the officers of the Live Stock Association, and finally disappeared, the last person seeing it being R. W. Lewis, an ex-Secretary of the Association. What became of the animal is not known, but Colonel Lindsay has ideas of his own concerning it, which he will probably at some future time make public.

The foregoing is the inside history of the case. Anderson has been acquitted of the charge, at a cost, it is estimated, of $8,000, for legal services and other expenses, the calf has disappeared, the lawyers rejoice in fat fees, and the GAZETIE, having performed its duty without prejudice to either party, will allow the matter to rest in statu quo.

The Abandonment of Fort MeDer

The Sacramento Bee has the following to say concerning the proposed abandonment of Fort Mc-Dermitt by the Government:

Dermitt by the Government:

Several of the papers of Eastern Nevada are complaining bitterly because Secretary of War Endicott thinks of abandoning Fort McDermitt, as it is 78 miles from the railroad. It is said that General O. O. Howard also favors its abandonment. The reason given is silly. Because it is away from the railroad, is that any reason why the people are not entitled to protection at the very spot where danger lurks? Let the troops be moved to the line of the railroad, out of the suspicion of any intrusion from the red men, and when the tomahawk and the scalping knife have done their deadly work, Secretary Endicett can lift up his eyes to heaven and thank God that the soldiers have been saved.

Frisky Old Boys. Spring is evidently here, as growd of half-grown boys and men whiled the afternoon away to-day on Virginia street by jumping, in which the "old boys" distinguished themselves in a manner which precludes the possibility of rheumatic joints being possessed by them. As they are getting so frisky at this early season, the usual fights which usher in gentle Spring cannot be far off.

LADIES' MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

The progress that has been made within the last few years in manufacturing Muslin Underwear of every description is truly remarkable. At a nominal figure above the cost of the raw material, garments are produced which for quality and style cannot be excelled. It is no wonder, then, that the ladies have discarded the practice of making these articles at home and buy them ready made.

We have just received a large invoice of these goods, including a large assortment of Pillow Shams. Infants' Robes.

Did you eyer notice what a wonderful influence one good farmer all the other farmers in the vicinity? Take, for example, a section where the land is naturally a little thin, where one generation after another have eked out a scanty living from the time of the first settlement, and let a good, system atic, energetic farmer settle on an average piece of land, and begin stirring things up-first treating the soil as it should be treated, enriching it with fertilizers and rotation of crops-and see the effect. How naturally everybody falls into line, and at least imitates the example of the newcomer. Such a farmer is worth more to a neighborhood than all the old fogies that can be gotten together. It would not be a bad idea for those who have charge of the agricultural interests of the different States to arrange to place exemplary farmers in districts where the people are slow to make improvements, or to make the best of the advantages which naturally surround them. Such a scheme might be impracticable, but it would certainly be a good way to "rattle the dry bones" that are standing in the way of progress in many a section or com-

Keeping the Old Hens. It never pays to sell the hens as long as they are laying eggs enough to pay for all expenses, as the culling out from the flock of those not desirable should be done as late in the season as possible, though it would not be unwise to get rid of the broken-down or overfat hens at any time. Keep every hen that moults early, for they will finish the process and be ready for laying before cold weather. Do not discard a hen because she is old, if she is a good layer. It will make no difference to you how old she is as long as she is profitable. We have known hens to lay well until they were seven or eight years old. There is no truth in the old theory -for theory it is only-that a hen is of but little value after she is two years old. We have seen hense six and seven year old that laid as many eggs in a year as the younger ones, and often exceeding them. An old hen that has proved profitable should be used as a breeder for the purpose of producing pullets, as living to old age also indicates hardiness. Keep an account of the eggs received, observe which hens are the best layers, in Summer as well as in Winter, and them carry over for next year, for in that way the flock will become better every season.

Cramps of the Muscles Cured. John L. Wood, of Stratford, Ont., was cured of cramps in the legs by wearing Allcock's Porous Plasters. Mr. Wood Allocar's Porous Plasters. Mr. Wood says: "Some three months ago I was taken very sick with severe pain in the small of my back over the kidneys. The pain was excruciating. I applied an Allocar's Porous Plaster over the affected c ck's Porous Plaster over the affected region and had relief almost within an hour. At the same time, in conjunction with this trouble, I had very great nervous disturbance, affecting my legs with eramps so I could scarcely ricep. Meeting with such success with my back, I applied a plaster under the knee on each leg, and in three days was completely cured and have never been troubled in either way since.
